Nutbush: Rev. Carr Moore, was installed pastor of this church, June 13, by a committee of Albemarle Presbytery. Rev. J. A. Washington: Our church has recently enjoyed a week of exceedingly helpful services. Beginning Sunday, June 6, Dr. A. L. Phillips, of Richmond, Va., assisted by Rev. J. B. Carpenter, conducted a three days' Sunday School Institute. Their practical exhibition of modern methods together with their earnest, spiritual addresses were instructive and inspiring, and we are sure will prove very fruitful of more efficient work in our school. We have already organized a teacher training class, and are planning to improve our equipment. The Institute was followed by evangelistic services, led by that veteran evangelist, Rev. Dr. W. D. Morton, of Rocky Mount. These services have been very stimulating and uplifting, and we feel confident that they will result in greater zeal and better work for the Master on the part of our people.

Second Church, Greenville: The building committee has completed and paid for a new manse and the pastor and his family have moved in. It is modern in style and has all of the latest improvements with combination fixtures for gas and electricity. Work is progressing rapidly on the new Church and Sunday school rooms which will seat eight hundred and fifty persons. Thirty-one new names were added to the roll of communicants last year. There are three hundred and thirty-nine officers, teachers and scholars on the rolls of the Sunday school. Dr. P. A. Pressly and Messrs. P. W. Seyle, J. E. Means and C. B. Flesher have been elected additional deacons. The contributions to all the causes were $6,271. The Church is harmonious, liberal and aggressive and promises indefinite enlargement for the future.

New Willington: The regular spring communion service was held at New Willington on May 9, preceded by services on Saturday. The good work of Rev. Mr. Tennel, was apparent from the beginning, as two little girls presented themselves before the session the first day, professed their faith in Christ, and were admitted to the communion. On Sabbath, two more applicants united themselves with God's people. One of them being a young man, the head of a family; and he and his wife brought their two young children forward and dedicated them to God, together with three other children; making five children to receive the ordinance of baptism, and two adults. The Church feels refreshed and invigorated. The Sunday school is in a flourishing condition, and everything moving along nicely. Mr. Fennel is much loved by his people, and he is doing a good work among us. Old Willington, as it has been in the past, is regularly supplied with preaching once a month by Rev. J. R. Hilhouse. His sermons are thoroughly orthodox, but no accessions, as there is no material in the community to draw from, and no Sunday school.
